

Spain

12/2005

interview with Francisco R.
López Serrano.

Spain

12/2005

interview with Brian Holmes.

Turkey

12/2005 Izmir

marchers in Izmir

Turkey

07/2005 Izmir

Environmentalist Veza Karabulut speaks to a crowd in Izmir.

Turkey

07/2005 Izmir

Activist and master of ceremonies
A. Tuncey Koroçorlu speaks to a crowd in Izmir.

Turkey

07/2005 Izmir

Activist Giray Korkusuz speaks to a crowd in Izmir.

Turkey

07/2005 Izmir

resident Özlem Karabulut
comments on the environment during a coordinated worldwide day of action.

Greece

10/2005 Athen
interview with Nikos Mylonas.

France

06/2005 Royan
Festival Captures 14.

USA

07/2005 New York
interview with Jon Wuepper.

Portugal

03/2005 Universidad de Funchal.
Workshop

USA

06/2005 Green Lake Michigan
interview with Joseph Callas.

Terranode is brought to you by Transnational Temps, tactical specialists in identifying prospects for constructive collaboration, across networks and borders, in simulation and stimulation, for as long as packets flow from sea to dying sea. Terranode exists because environmental sustainability now requires human cooperation more than ever before. As human perceptions about the world have become more and more influenced by media, it has become increasingly important to bridge the gap between specialized knowledge and public awareness. While facts and crises may be recognized by scientists, a hopeful future for the world's environment in the decades to come will depend on making consciousness about environmental problems far more widespread.